DATE PREPARED 12 October 1951

Between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. on 6 September 1951, no aircraft or flying was observed at Rangsdorf airfield. The hangars were closed. Only a few air force officers and EM wearing overalls were seen in the entire area. The loud noise of engines, which were probably running on a test stand, was heard without interruption during the entire period of observation. The noise of electromotors and hammering was heard from the workshops. Two tank trucks and two trucks [redacted] were observed near the hangars in the northern section of the field. There was no vehicular traffic. *

* Comment. The occupation of the airfield has apparently not changed. An aircraft engine repair unit is believed to be stationed at the field. No air unit is located in Rangsdorf.
